WACO, APRIL 14, 1882.

A year ago this morning there was a killing frost in Texas.

Miss Phoebe Corzins, of St. Louis, stands a fair chance to be one of the Utah commissioners.

"Hallstones as large as guinea eggs" is the story that is coming in from many Texas towns this week.

Sergeant Mason states he is well treated in the Albany penitentiary. "Betty and the Baby" have now received over $10,000.

They are thinking of having a day of thanksgiving—a regular public jubilee—in Kentucky. The legislature has decided to adjourn on the 24th.

The largest locomotive in the United States is now building at San Francisco. When equipped with fuel, tender and water its weight will be about ninety tons.

The republicans in congress are very much worried about preparing a new anti-Chinese bill, and it will probably be several weeks before the President has a chance to sign another veto message.

Setting fire to the shops of Jews after saturating them with petroleum is the latest diversion in Southern Russia. Wonder the ruffians don't dip the Jews in petroleum and set them on fire, too.

Mahone's newspaper organ at Richmond has frankly acknowledged that the Ross intends to have re-adjuster congressmen elected this fall who will vote and co-operate with the administration.

Mahone seems bent on burning every bridge behind him as he marches away from the democratic party.

There is a hurricane horror prevailing at Columbus, on account of the discovery of attempted bribery of Ohio legislators. A lot of nicely-dressed fellows have been dining, champagne and cigars the members all winter just for love of their society, and of course the innocent and unsuspecting Buckeyes are amazed that such wickedness should approach them.

Alexander H. Stephens endorses the speech of Senator Brown on the tariff question. He says of it: "I have been hearing and reading speeches on the tariff for fifty years, and I have found but one that is completely satisfactory in the whole lot. It was Joe Brown's in the senate. It suited me exactly. It is a plain, common-sense statement of the question, and of a sound policy to regulate it."

Governor Foster, of Ohio, has issued a proclamation setting apart April 27 as a day for planting forest trees in Ohio by the outdoors and in groves about homes. He recommends the formation of forestry societies in towns and villages, and calls attention to the national forestry congress in Cincinnati April 25, and recommends that all agricultural societies appoint delegates to make the congress a success.

The Nashville World of the 10th says: Ex-Gov. Richard B. Hubbard, of Texas, will address the Vanderbilt literary societies, on the occasion of the commencement in May. Gov. Hubbard is a very able man, and was largely instrumental in the nomination of Hancock.

He is an able man—no abler in Texas, and an orator whose addresses are never forgotten by those who hear them. The World can assure the good people of Nashville a real treat in listening to Governor Hubbard.

The Galveston News tenders the following timely resolutions concerning the "regulation" of railroads in Texas:

The zeal of legislators to attack railroad companies is perilously outstripping discretion. Texas has not yet got all the railroads she will ever want, and five cents a mile quick travel is a great advantage over twelve and a half cents and the male passengers to walk and carry free rails to raise up the wheels of a stage in muddy places. It is not obviously so necessary that legislators should cut down passenger fares, as it may be that they should provide for a clear understanding and equitable arrangements in the matter of freight.

The Denison Democrat says leading merchants of Denison and many from all parts of the state are banding together to save Jay Gould and associates of the Southwestern railroad for damages aggregating enormous sums for delay in delivering goods until the season for sale is past. Merchants claim this class of delays is incessantly delayed many weeks at Cairo, Illinois, that the railroads may reap the benefit of a long haul, and claim that the goods could have been delivered in season by crossing the Mississippi at St. Louis and shipping via the Missouri Pacific. The railroad people claim the delay is unavoidable on account of this explanation.

The people who wonder at Guiteau selling his old clothes for three hundred dollars, or his autographs at two bits apiece, should have been at St. Joe, Missouri, the other day, when the honest effects of the late Jesse James were auctioned off. There was a perfect rush of "relief" hunters, and about ten dollars worth of rubbish brought two hundred dollars. The outlaw's dog, a very common animal, brought fifteen dollars; the chair on which he was standing when shot brought five dollars; five other plain case chairs, two dollars each; a half dozen stone china plates, one dollar each; a half dozen stone saucers, fifty cents each; knives and forks, one dollar each; an old wash-basin, four dollars and seventy-five cents; the dinner table was brushing off pictures with at the fatal moment, five dollars; a worthless jack-knife, four dollars; an old satchel, twenty-one dollars; a washstand, eleven dollars; a crippled revolver, seventeen dollars; a pair of old pants, two dollars; and many other articles at similar prices.

LOCAL PENITENTIARIES.

"Brown and Herndon's penitentiary," located near Calvert, in Robertson county, is getting a state reputation as an illustration of what is possible under the county convict system of this state.

The institution in question is a farm, where falls and other counties hire their county convicts, the poor devils who get drunk, who are caught carrying pistols or convicted of petty offenses and misdemeanors. They are hired at six dollars a month until fine and costs are paid. A penalty that aggregates one hundred dollars entails confinement, at hard labor, for one year four months and ten days. The management of the institution is thus described by the Calvert Courier:

There is a striking similarity between the state penitentiary and that of the firm above mentioned, in the rigid discipline enforced and the amount of labor required of the convict, and they all work under the lash and the persuasive stick.

Here is the injustice of the county convict system, which the EXAMINER has so often denounced as an outrage. A poor man, not a thief, a burglar, or anything on the felon order, merely guilty of what the law classes as a misdemeanor, or generally fighting while drunk, carrying a pistol or something of the kind, is placed on one of these convict farms side by side with a vicious, low order of men. He is compelled to wear stripes, labor hard and serve sometimes a longer term of imprisonment than the state imposes on felons or murderers. If he rebels he is lashed and if he attempts to escape he is hunted down with bloodhounds. The severity of the punishment is altogether disproportionate to his offense. It is an outrage, a travesty on justice that is a disgrace to the state. It was high time the Governor appealed to the legislature to put a stop to such practices.

A MISCHIEVOUS MEASURE.

If Mr. Tull's railroad measure, now pending in the legislature, is to become a law, railroad builders and others might as well shut up shop and invest their money in enterprises outside of Texas. It imposes onerous and unreasonable restrictions. Mr. T. surely misrepresents the bent of public sentiment on the railroad question. The people do not desire the legislature to enter upon the work of strangling the roads. A little legislation, plain and practical, in the way of regulating freight rates, so that roads will not discriminate against shippers, or against one point in favor of another, and providing for prompt handling of freight when offered, is in reality about all the "regulating" the roads need. Some legislators are fretting over the five cents a mile passenger rates charged by every road in the state but two. We notice, though, that a move to impose a fine of one thousand dollars for every five pass issued by any road could not even obtain consideration in the house. The passenger rate question will in good time find adjustment and reduction in the competition between the several roads. If it remains at five cents it is not exorbitant. It is the freight business the legislature should look after. If it really desires to benefit the people, if Mr. Tull's bill or any measure akin to it becomes a law it is to be hoped the Governor will use the veto power, promptly and vigorously, for the bill threatens a disastrous measure. A fine of one thousand dollars, invested in railways in this state, is rather too mischievous to be endorsed by intelligent, fair-minded people.

The gauged this month's weather pretty accurately.

A Queer Marriage Ceremony.

Belfast (Me.) Journal.

A queer case of marriage took place in this county, where one of the contracting parties belonged to Belfast. The wife subsequently became a pauper, and the authorities ascertained that the marriage, which took place in Frankfort, was a bogus one, and claimed that they were not bound for the support of the woman. The man who acted as justice said the ceremony was performed as a joke, and the contracting parties had no certificates, and that his commission as justice of the peace had expired. The following is the ceremony used at the wedding:

"Beneath this roof in pleasant weather, I join this man and maid together. Let none but him who rules the thunder, let none but him who rules the lightning, let none but him who rules the storm, let none but him who rules the wind, let none but him who rules the rain, let
